

STCW = Standards of Training Certification and Watch Keeping for Seafarers.

The International Standard for the Training Certification and Watch Keeping for Seafarers 1995, amended by Manila Amendments 2010, is mandated by the International Maritime Organization (IMO), and has the force of law in 154 signatory countries. Although experience at sea remains an important part of a seafarer's overall career development, it is no longer enough to "serve your time."

All crew members are required to complete the STCW 95+10 training modules, regardless of their position onboard.

All yacht crew are required to have the International STCW95 as amended by Manila Amendments 2010 certificate (STCW95+10) or the Australian Shipboard Safety Skill Set. It must also be refreshed every 5 years.

The 1995 STCW Convention, amended by the Manila Amendments 2010 establishes a baseline standard for the training and education of seafarers throughout the world. STCW 95+10 stipulates the required competencies associated with different tasks, the knowledge and understanding required to perform them, methods for demonstrating competence and criteria for evaluating it. The Convention embodies provision for "hands-on" training and the development of basic skills through use of simulators, laboratory training equipment and other practical training aids.

The convention was amended/expanded to include Maritime Security Awareness. Crew members who do not have the additional Security endorsements must take an update course to maintain the validity of their earlier training.

We offer an MCA-approved STCW Basic Safety course over 6 days. The competency units covered in the STCW 95+10 training course are:

- Sea Survival - (Table A – VI/1-1), MARF001, MARF005
- Marine Fire Fighting and Fire Prevention – (Table A – VI/1-2), MARF002
- First Aid - (Table A – VI/1-3), HLTAID003
- Personal Safety and Social Responsibility - (Table A – VI/1-4), MARF004
- Maritime Security Awareness – (Reg V1-6 and Part A of Section A – VI/6 Paragraph 4)

HOW LONG IS THE COURSE? Six days, from 8:00 AM Monday to 4:00 PM Saturday

WHERE DO THE COURSES TAKE PLACE? The theory and practical classroom sessions (Monday-Thursday) are held at a training facility in Newport, about 45mins North of Sydney's CBD. The Firefighting Practical (Friday) is held at TAFE NSW Nirimba College Fire Grounds in Quakers Hills, and the Sea Survival Practical (Saturday) is held at the QANTAS Jet Base Pool at Sydney Airport, Mascot.

These courses are run by our training partners who certify under the "International Yacht Training" (IYT) banner. Accommodation nearby is recommended for those who need to commute to the location in Newport.

Your certificates will carry the IYT logo which has recognition with 25 governments across the globe. The certification is approved by the Maritime Coastguard Agency (MCA).

You will graduate with internationally recognised STCW Basic Safety Training certificates.

This course provides you with dual certification, which means your training qualifies you to obtain the Australian 'Statement of Attainment.' This Statement of Attainment meets the requirements for the Shipboard Safety Skill Set, which is recognized by the Australian Maritime Safety Authority (AMSA). You will also achieve a Statement of Attainment for the first aid unit of competency.

HOW MUCH DOES THE COURSE COST? AUD $2,250.

PACKAGE DISCOUNTS apply when you book this course along with a vocational course: Steward/ess or Deckhand. STCW95 certification is a requirement for a crew position on a Superyacht but does not, by itself, qualify you for a crew position. You need additional training, certification and experience if you want a Captain to offer you a job. If you lack these skills and certification, we recommend you sign up for the Superyacht Deckhand or Superyacht Interior Crew course at the same time to be eligible for a special package price.
